IN THE BEGINNING

Long ago, before this country existed, several men saw a need for change. Revolution. The revolutionaries poured out blood, the Second Continental Congress gave sweat, and the martyrs who died under an imperialistic nation let us shed tears. But after the battle was won, the war still raged within our own borders. Governments were tried and governments failed, but at last one was reached that gave rights and freedoms to all: The United States Constitution. With this basic foundation, an entire nation was set forth. Although these were humble beginnings, over 200 years later this nation became one of the most powerful nations on the face of the earth. This was the beginning of our future as Americans. But as young people came to achieve higher education, just as our nation had humble beginnings, so do many of the students at Copiah-Lincoln. Humble beginnings, However, never mean humble ends.

Preston Gordon said "My high school prepared me for the challenge of college life."

STUDENTS SPEAK

Several students on campus were asked: "How has your high school education added to your future?" And here are their responses . . .

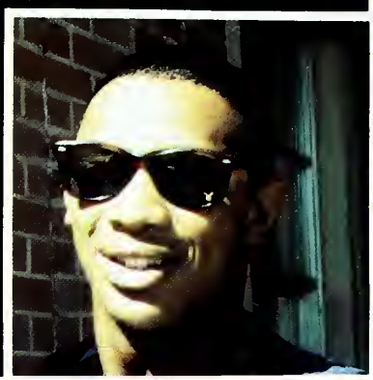
Chandra Gordon tells us "It gave me the courage to face college." "Adventurous!" says Rusty Gilbert. "It helped me become more outgoing." says Jody Martin. Sharon Lee states "It gave me a change to go to college." While Gayle Williams says, "It gave me a great football career!" Others such as Rhonda Boswell say that high school "Built my character and added to my personality." Glenn Westbrook credits his high school because "It added to my Math and Science Education." Although every one has a different outlook, Tony Johnson seems to sum it all up with his opinion, "It gave me a better focus on life."

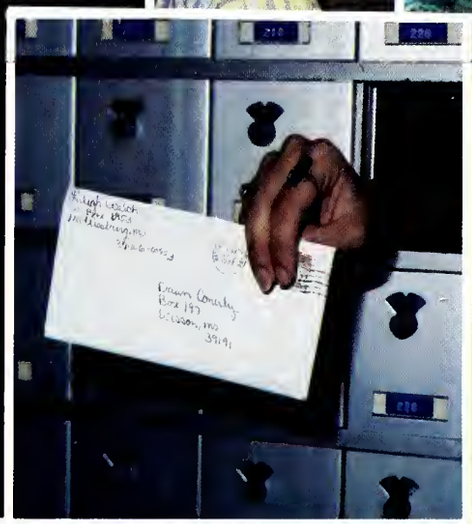
FUTURE IN PROGRESS

In the earlier part of our lives, we spent our time preparing for high school. The closer we got to it the more we longed to join it. We found it more than we expected, but a lot like what we had imagined. It was a memorable time in our lives, heartaches and sorrows could never have surpassed and of the laughter and fun that had been enjoyed.

Activities such as band, dances, and the prom seemed to have been the center of attention. Football, baseball, and basketball held our attention with each respective season. The after hours even became a time that could be labeled "High School." It was these beginnings that started our future and prepared us for the rigors of college life.

BUILDING OUR FUTURE





ADDING ON

This year, a new addition to Co-Lin's campus was completed. The new dorms provided more space for the cramped conditions of the older dorms. The new men's dorms are located on either side of the Oswalt house. The new women's dorm is located behind Stevens hall. It is a nice change to have new, larger, and cleaner looking dormitories. The dormitories have added a new look to Co-Lin as well as given more living space for an even larger number of students. With these new dorms, more students will be attracted to Co-Lin. Even though there were some setbacks on the building of the dorms, they were finally finished with the addition of locks on all the doors in the men's dorm.

A Lasting Foundation

Co-Lin. Often these two words are spoken as a nutshell for many different feelings and experiences. However, Co-Lin does not tell the whole story. Co-Lin is a large stepping stone in life. Social time builds character and teachers construct minds. In a sense Co-Lin is a building site for people. The foundation was laid in high school, the bricks are laid in college, and the roof completes the shell at graduation. Then our life experiences design the interior. Everyone who leaves here takes more than just an education. For most, the education received here in such a short time will last forever. Co-Lin — Building Our Future.

MAGIC JOHNSON

In our lives, there are famous people known the world over. It is a rare event when one of these people pay a visit to every day people. Before school started one of the greatest basketball players in sports, Earvin "Magic" Johnson, visited Wesson and the Co-Lin campus. He was visiting his grandfather, Jack Johnson who resides in Crystal Springs. Jack is a long-time Copiah Lincoln employee. Johnson plays for the Los Angeles Lakers and was voted the NBA's Most Valuable Player. Many people flocked to see Johnson and get his autograph, but he seemed to pay the most attention to the children.

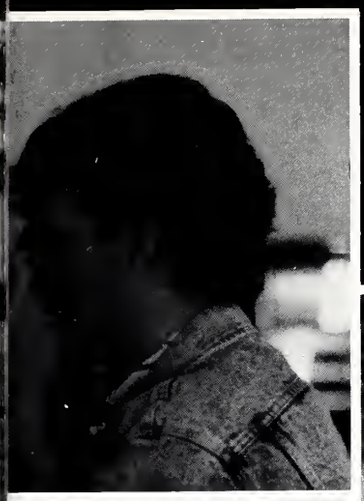
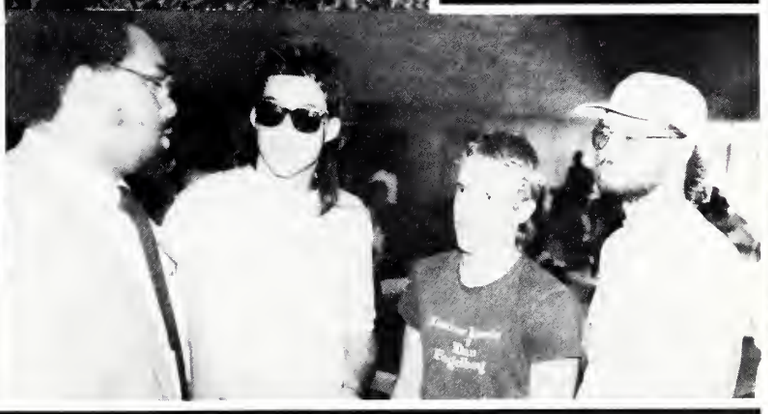
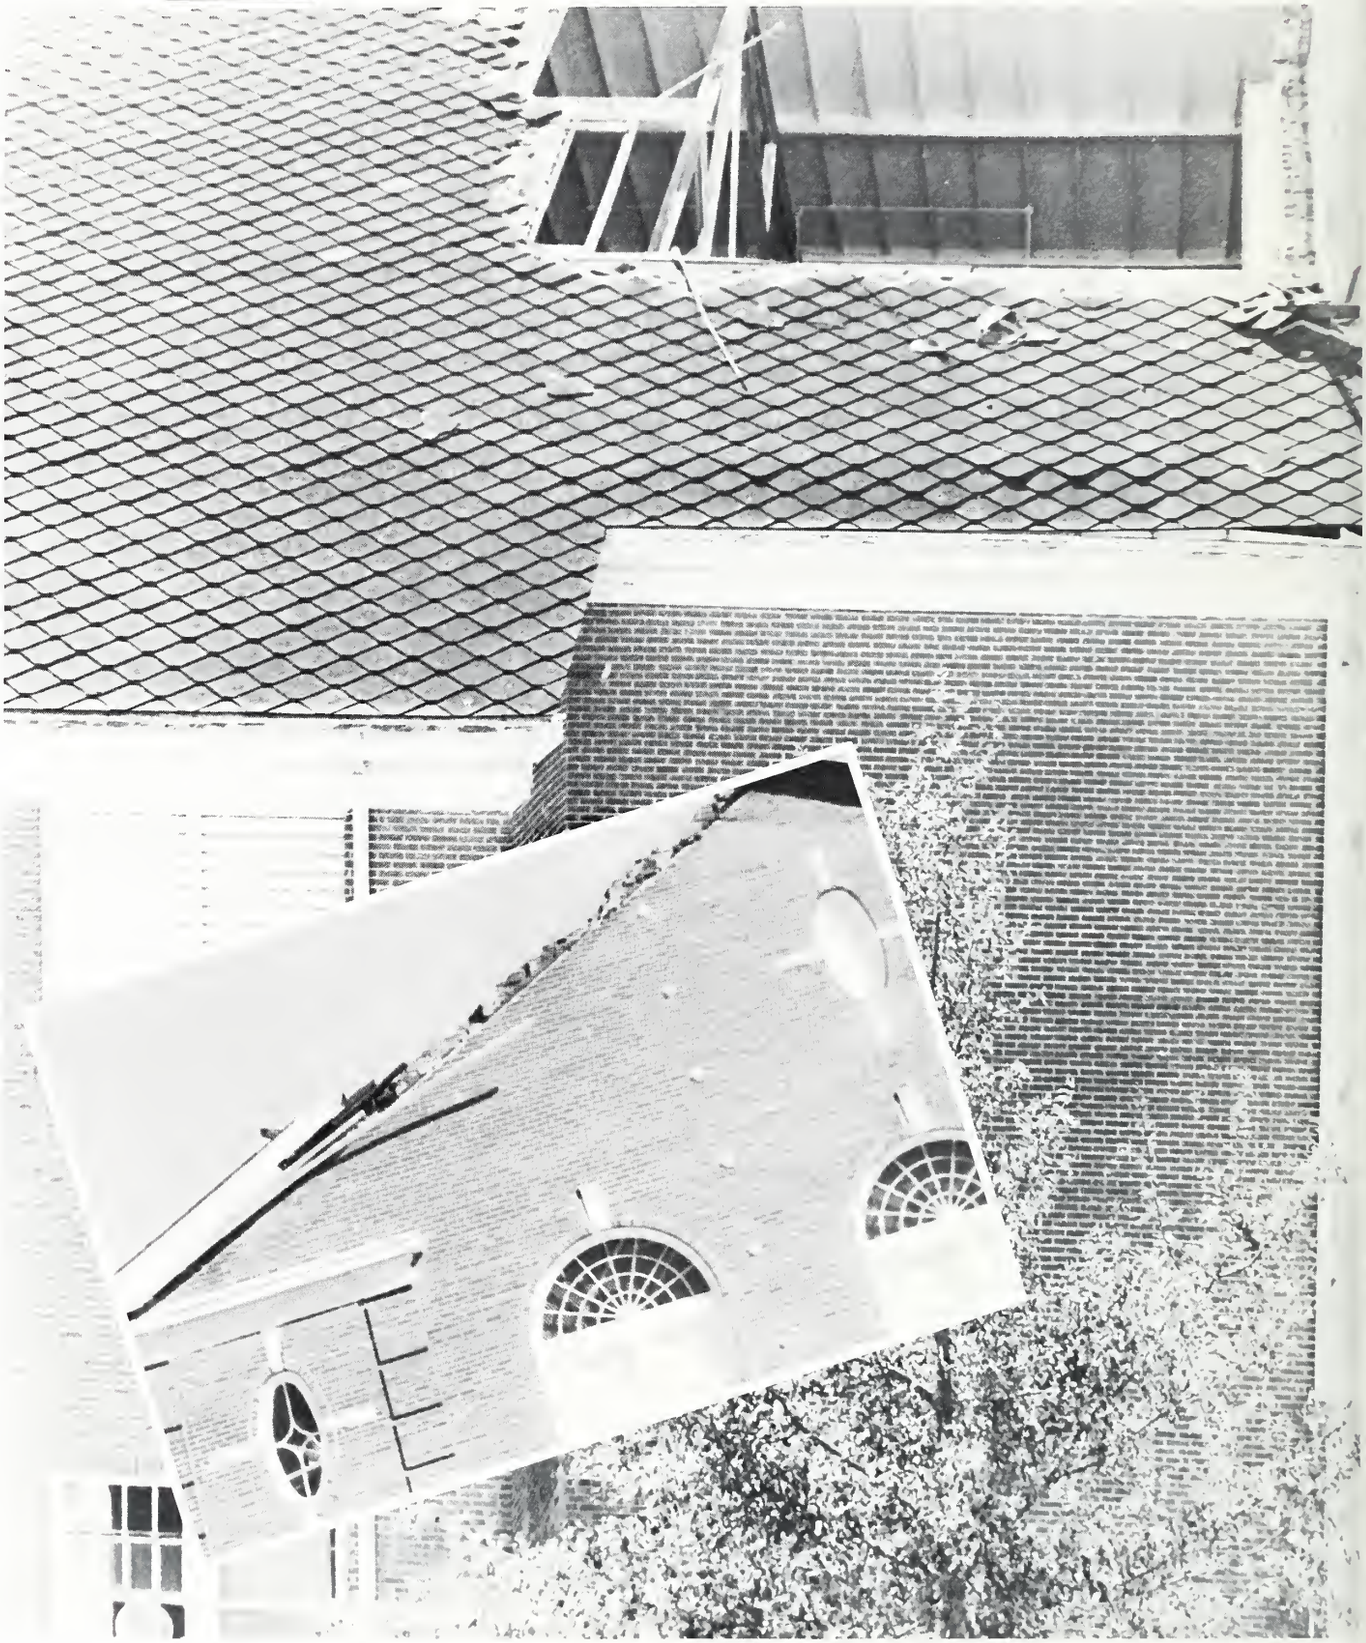
Building our Future



D.C. OUT



Destroying our future



Our future was temporarily destroyed at approximately 2:45 p.m. on Monday, November 16, 1987, by a tornado which caused over $200,000 in damage to various buildings. One of the heaviest damaged buildings was the Rec Hall. Other damages included an overturned trailer, downed trees, power lines, phone lines, and water lines. Around 15 car windows were damaged due to flying debris.

The students handled the situation very well. Despite garbage cans flying by upstairs windows, glass windows being shattered out of the library, trees falling on their cars, no lights or phones, they remained calm.

Fortunately, despite all the trees which were blown down around them, the two new mens dorms, suffered no damage.

And finally, two weeks after the storm, construction crews moved in and started reconstruction of the campus.

Thanks so much

We, the editors, would like to say thank you to everyone who contributed to the completion of the 1987-88 Trillium. A special thanks goes to Burlian Walker for his guidance, patience, and friendship given during the numerous hours spent working toward deadlines. We would also like to thank Chris Layton, Gregg Knippers, and Lisa Kinnison for time spent taking and developing pictures; Don Jackson for his extra time and effort; Vin Clarke and Robert Norton, associate editors; and the Trillium Staff for their assistance. We appreciate all their help, for without it, production would be impossible.

Yo Wolves

The last page is finished and the final shipment has been mailed. Every yearbook staff member has breathed a sigh of relief, knowing their work is complete.

What will we do with all of the free time we have now? Most of us will probably catch up on studying, sleeping, and spend more time with our friends — not necessarily in that order.

Sometimes we take for granted our yearbooks; however, when our school years are over and our memories are fading fast, we can pick up our yearbooks and remember all the friends we made and the fun we had. All of those times were building blocks in our future.

With all of the hard work we have put into the TRILLIUM, we have also received many fond memories of working together with friends. We hope that we have captured the highlights of this year at Copiah-Lincoln Junior College 1988 — A building of our future.

The Executive Editors.
